The History of Camp Fremont

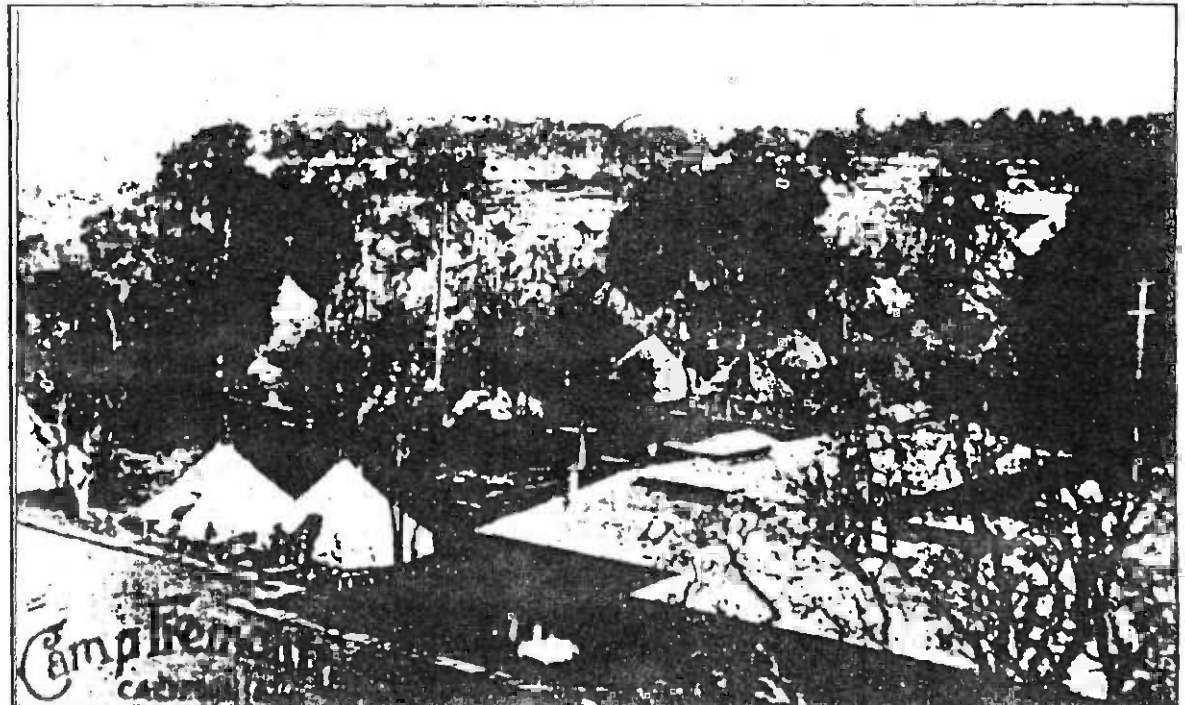

Few of today's San Mateo County residents know exactly where Camp Fremont once stood, but for about 18 months, from July 12, 1917 until it was dismantled in early 1919 it was a teeming World War I Training Camp. At it's peak nearly 27,000 personnel were resident on the base. In all more than 43,000 soldiers passed through the little town of Menlo Park (former population 2300). Country living was disturbed by the sounds of guns, canon and grenades exploding as troops trained for their eminent war duty. Menlo Park was chosen as the training site due to it's similarity to the French terrain where troops were supposedly heading.

Located from the El Camino Real to the Alameda de Las Pulgas and from Valparaiso to the San Francisquito Creek, Camp Fremont covered approximately 25,000 acres (15 Square miles). Besides calvary and infantry there were nearly 10000 horses and mules which were housed further east at a re-mount station on Ravenswood, near the camp hospital. Of the 16 training centers erected by the War department, Camp Fremont was the largest west of the Mississippi.

Every idle carpenter on the peninsula was put to work. In all more than 700 men were employed turning more than 100 railroad cars of lumber into temporary buildings.

Barracks consisted of wooden floors and sidewalls topped with canvas tents. Camp Fremont's tent city covered more than 1000 acres. 150 Southern Pacific workers laid spur track from the main line to the middle of camp. El Camino Real was paved to accommodate the increased traffic, and Menlo Park became known as one of the worst traffic bottle-necks on the peninsula.

Suddenly every available store front was occupied by merchants from throughout the Bay Area. A movie theater, post office, church and library were built. Beltramo's Winery and every tavern within 5 miles of the base were declared dry by order of the army and the county. Sequoia High School opened a branch on the base offering classes in English, arithmetic, shorthand, typing and accounting but low attendance caused the program to fold. Stanford University, worried about the proximity of so many men to their co-eds, stopped their objections when two companies of soldiers were assigned to the duty of making sure that no soldiers invaded Stanford's borders and no co-eds infiltrated Tent City.

Shortly after the building started the war department halted the effort for three months. The original troops were moved east at one point, but then the 8th Division, Regular Army was transferred in and remained until the dismantling. The troops which had trained to join the war efforts in France never did reach Europe. Some 5000, however, did serve time in Siberia. Michael Svanevik's article When 'the forgotten army' went to Siberia, The San Mateo Times, Friday, Aug 19, 1988 pg B3, tells a little of the tale of the Siberian intervention.

Before it was ordered closed in December 1918, just one month after the armistice was signed 43,000 men had been trained. So, just 18 months after it was erected Camp Fremont was abandoned and the land reverted to its previous owners. But due to the efforts of the 8th Army Corp of Engineers the once rustic town of Menlo Park now had paved roads, water and gas services. Other legacies were the more than a million pounds of lead that were removed from the hills as they were developed. Today a few remainders of the 1000 plus Camp buildings dot the landscape of Menlo Park. The popular McArthur Park restaurant and the Oasis Beer Garden are housed in remnants of the vast camp and the Veterans Center on Willow Road was the base hospital.

Many of the 43000 men who served at Camp Fremont were recent emigres to the United States. In accordance with legislation passed at the time of the Civil War, the naturalization process was changed to honor their efforts for their new country. In all nearly 3200 men took advantage of the opportunity to become United States citizens before the base closed.

An Overview of the Camp Fremont Naturalization Records

The Camp Fremont naturalization records are contained in thirteen volumes dated from May 5, 1918 to March 17, 1919.

While there are earlier and later naturalization records in the San Mateo Repository that fell under the same law, negating the need for the Declaration of Intention in the naturalization process, this group of records is unique in that they are all gathered together in one set of volumes.

There is one disadvantage to the elimination of the Intention to Become a Citizen, however. After 1906 the Federally approved Declaration of Intention contained a wealth of information on the individual who was starting the naturalization process. The Naturalization Petition did not contain all of the same information. With few exceptions these records are limited to the double sided petition with the certificate number written in.

Information on the petition includes: Full name, birth place, birth date, emigration date, emigration port, arrival date, arrival port, ship. Petitions of married petitioners also included the names, birth dates, birth places, and current residence of wives and minor children.

There is one other piece of important information on most of these petitions. Some helpful San Mateo County clerk or court employee penciled in the unit that the petitioner was attached to in the upper right hand corner of the petitions. Some of the petitions also list the units of the witnesses to the petition, and it is quite probable that would be he petitioners unit. Many of the records are for the 8th Army but not all. Most of the petitions that were checked showed that the petitioners had lived in California prior to their induction into the Army, but there may be exceptions.

There are a few oddities in the records. Records 137, 564, 565, 566 and 682 were either skipped or are missing. There are two records with the number 663 and two with the number 1816. Otherwise the numbers are in order

You will find notations for new certificates in some instances. For the most part these were replacements for lost certificates. There are at least two circumstances where a third certificate was issued.

The notes column also gives you information on revoked citizenship. Usually there is a letter attached to the petition that tells more about the cancellation. In most cases the petitioners had returned to their country of origin, but in a few cases the circumstances were more interesting. In the case of a cancellation, it is likely that the National Archives will have more information in their files.

From the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

From 1906 on the Immigration and Naturalization Service (Bureau of Immigration) required the courts to send copies of all immigration records to them. These records might contain more information than you find on the petition in the case of these World War I Naturalizations.

In order to obtain a copy of a naturalization record that you find in this index from the Immigration and Naturalization Service you should:

- i. Fill in a copy of Form G-639. (Request an INS Form G-639 via email at this web site: <http://www.ins.usdoj.gov/exec/forms/formsbymail.us> or pick up a copy at the closest National Archives Facility or by mail at the address below.) Include your immigrant's full name and the petition and certificate dates and numbers. Fill in as much other information as you know. Attach copies of any immigration records you have in your possession
- ii. If the immigrant's birthdate is less than 100 years ago, attach a copy of the death certificate, an obituary from the newspaper, or something showing the person is deceased.
- iii. Ask for the complete file.
Mail it to: INS Freedom of Information 2nd Floor ULLB , 425 I Street NW, Washington, DC 20536.
- iv. In 2 or 3 weeks, you should get a receipt in the mail saying INS received your request and assigned it a case number (shown on the receipt). Keep this receipt, because you may need that number.
- v. Not usually necessary, but be prepared! - If you don't get a receipt in about one month, send in another copy of your request, and do so until you get that receipt.

SMCGS is a non-profit organization founded in July 1982 by a handful of local enthusiasts. Now over 200 members strong, it is an active organization with members joining in various activities and utilizing the many resources.

PURPOSE & OBJECTIVES

1. To promote an interest in Genealogy
2. To encourage genealogical research and the maintenance of quality genealogical standards
3. To locate and preserve genealogical records.
4. To cooperate with other groups and organizations with similar objectives.

Benefits of Membership include:

|--------------------|-----------------------------|
| ✧ Library | ✧ Mentors |
| ✧ Newsletter | ✧ Surname List |
| ✧ Monthly Meetings | ✧ Monthly Beginner Sessions |
| ✧ Classes | ✧ Special workshops |
| ✧ Seminars | ✧ Special interest groups |

There are two CD computer stations in the library that are accessible to the public during library hours. The group currently maintains a home page and an e-mail address for the society.

The Library houses a large collection of local, national and international reference material. There is a large collection of various newsletters and quarterlies from other genealogical and historical societies.

A monthly newsletter (10 issues) Filled with articles of local, statewide, national and international research tips, local events, program, and news of other societies.

Monthly meetings feature Bay Area speakers discussing all aspects of genealogy including methods of research, areas of research and related historical records.

Classes are held throughout the year for beginners. Special classes and workshops are held as interest indicates.

Seminars are held twice yearly and cater to a variety of research interests.

New researchers, or new computer users can be matched with appropriate mentors.

San Mateo County Genealogical Society Research Policy

The San Mateo County Genealogical Society Research Committee, currently headed by Mary Lou Grunigen will undertake San Mateo County Research and retrieval of records within the county. The minimum fee is $10 for the first hour with additional hourly charges as required. All costs (fees to county agencies, copies, mileage, etc.) are extra.

You can request a search of all our San Mateo County databases as part of the initial hour, or specify a particular record that you would like us to search for. Be as specific as possible when you send your request. Please include a Self Addressed Stamped Envelope (SASE) with all correspondence to the society.

If your research project is beyond the scope of our committee we will try to supply you with a list of local researchers who might undertake your research.

The SMC GS Newsletter accepts queries. Queries are free to members. Non-members are requested to submit $2 with their query which will be printed in the next available space. Please limit your queries to 50 words or less not including name and address. The newsletter is published 10 times a year and goes to over 50 institutions as well as all members.

The above fees have been set for the 1999 fiscal year. Rising costs could cause the rates to change in future years.
